JOHNS HOPKINS
MEDICINE

DESCRIPTION

This CME activity is created by the Johns Hopkins Women's Wellness and Healthy Aging Program, which delivers care that ensures women's health needs are addressed before, during and beyond menopause. The program focuses on personalized treatment of the whole woman with an understanding of medical conditions and healthy aging practices in her post reproductive years. The goal of this CME activity is to increase ambulatory providers' knowledge and confidence with regards to diagnosis and management of menopause and related conditions. By the end of this activity, providers will feel more confident in their ability to diagnose women in menopause, synthesize and communicate individualized treatment plans for specific symptoms and conditions. Topics will include various conditions that uniquely affect women going through menopause. There will be a panel of multi-disciplinary speakers.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

This activity is intended for health care providers who care for women as they transition through menopause.

OBJECTIVES

After attending this activity, the learner will demonstrate the ability to:

- Report increased confidence in knowledge of menopause topics.
- Report increased confidence in managing symptoms of menopause.
- Counsel patients on menopause topics.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Applications for commercial support from health care related industries are pending. A complete list of contributors will be provided in the syllabus. Please note that commercial support received is solely for the educational component of the activity and will not be used to provide food and beverage.

Please note: The Physician Payments Sunshine Act was enacted by Congress to increase public awareness of financial relationships between drug and medical device manufacturers and physicians. In compliance with the requirements of this Act, the commercial supporter/s of this activity may require the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine to report certain professional information (such as name, address, National Provider Identifier (NPI), and State License number) of physician attendees who receive complimentary food and beverage in conjunction with a CME activity. The commercial supporter is required to submit the collected data to the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services which will then publish the data on its website.
