Infection and Care of Patients with Viral Hepatitis –
An Enduring Material
July 16, 2021 – July 16, 2024
80054965 / 32245

DESCRIPTION

The purpose of this activity is to provide a state-of-the-art overview of the clinical care of patients with HIV infection for practicing clinicians and other health professionals. The activity will include discussions of HIV epidemiology, clinical management and treatment, and longitudinal care. The material will be clinically oriented with a focus on the latest pertinent data from clinical trials and basic research. Participants can expect to become more familiar with the primary care of the patient with HIV infection and the management of clinical complications of HIV disease.

TARGET AUDIENCE

This activity is intended for internists, family practitioners, infectious disease clinicians, nurses, nurse practitioners, physician assistants, social workers, counselors, pharmacists, case managers and other allied health professionals practicing in the area of HIV.

OBJECTIVES

After participating in this activity, the learner will demonstrate the ability to:

- Recognize current epidemiology of HIV and the impact of COVID-19 on care
- Discuss recent advances in HIV and hepatitis prevention
- Review therapeutic options for treatment of HIV and viral hepatitis and their co-morbidities
